Standard Dishes.—Samples of the Standard subscription dishes can now be seen at the Standard office. Our dishes are semi-porcelain, imported English goods. One 27-piece blue decorated set, 2-7-5 and one 42-piece plain white set, $3.00.

Suit Against Huntsville.—The Electric Supply and Hardware company of Ogden has filed a complaint with the county clerk, to commence suit for the recovery of $347.89 from Huntsville, which is due them for goods, wares, and merchandise purchased by Huntsville and not paid for.

Ideally is now open under new management.

Shipping Utah Potatoes.—C. M. Humphrey, representing the Wm. M. Royall Produce company of Provo, was an Ogden visitor yesterday. He is shipping from Clearfield the potato crop for the Royall company. Mr. Humphrey reports the crop as being very fine. The quality is good and the yield is heavy. About one hundred and fifty carloads have been bought and are being shipped at the rate of four cars a day. The potatoes are meeting a ready market which offers good prices.

Lost Valuable Purse in Ogden.—While on his way to Seattle, A. W. Balson of Salt Lake stopped off in Ogden for a short time. While taking a stroll he dropped his wallet containing a $75 draft and $20 in currency. Just as he was about to board the train for Seattle he discovered the loss and reported it to the police department. A detail was put to work on the case and the pocketbook was found in the culvert on Wall avenue. The draft was left, but the $20 in cash was missing. Balson returned to Salt Lake last night where he received reimbursements and his trip was begun anew this morning.

Past Grand Master of Utah Dead.—Walter Scott, past grand master of the Masonic lodge of Utah, died in Salt Lake yesterday at the age of 64 years. He has been ill but a short time. Before coming to Utah Mr. Scott lived in Kansas. He was prominent at Beloit, Kas., in the early days and held several offices there.

STORAGE at reasonable rates, in good brick building. If you need any room, consult John Seaworth & Sons Company.

Storms Worth Thousands.—George Austin, agricultural superintendent of the Utah-Idaho Sugar company for the Utah fields, says the recent storms have been worth thousands of dollars to the beet growers in Utah, Box Elder and Salt Lake counties. The improvement in crops contiguous to the Garland factory is especially strong. Advances from the Idaho districts are that the crops around Sugar City are in flourishing condition, and the same report comes from everywhere else, except Nampa, where the unfavorable spring and the drought will reduce the estimates.

Arresting Boys.—Special Officer William Reast has arrested ten boys so far this week for riding bicycles without bells. Yesterday he arrested three for leaving their horses unhitched on the street.

Warning Issued.—Automobile drivers are warned against fast driving. Complaints are coming in to the police almost every day, and the officers are keeping a close tab on all the machines in town.

Mrs. Shilling Alive.—The story which appeared a few days ago on the death of Mrs. W. N. Shilling, a former resident of Ogden, but now residing at Rupert, Idaho, was erroneous. A letter from Mr. Shilling received by A. W. Abbott today, states that Mrs. Shilling is in fairly good health, considering that she has had much trouble with rheumatism during the last few months, and has had a great sorrow to bear in the death of her daughter, Ruby.

Crack Shot Here.—C. B. Adams, a crack shot from Rockwell City, Iowa, has arrived in Ogden and will take part in the Utah-Idaho shoot to be held here August 8, 9, 10.

Chicago Surgeon.—Dr. Charles E. Kock, a prominent Chicago surgeon, is registered at the Reed hotel today. He stopped off in this city on his way home from California.

H. E. Weymouth, a prominent mining man from Weiser, Idaho, is a business caller in Ogden today.

Tourists at Reed.—Yellowstone Park tourists who are registered at the Reed hotel today are E. H. Stevenson, wife and son of Port Smith, Ark., and J. B. Anderson and C. E. Webb of Tampa, Fla.

Confiscating Wormy Fruit.—Horticultural Inspector R. N. Rasmussen has been visiting the grocery stores and fruit stands of Ogden and so far has confiscated from three to four boxes of wormy apples and other fruit in each place. The inspector is compelled by law to prevent the sale and distribution of wormy fruit.

Back From Northwest.—Dr. Brick has returned from a trip to the northwest.

Building Road to Plain City.—Work on the Plain City road is now in progress and 60 men are employed in the task of connecting Ogden with the Northwest. At Harrisville five tracks will be crossed by the new line, including four Oregon Short Line and one Southern Pacific.

New Postoffice.—The new postoffice will not be ready for occupancy for some time. The light fixtures are being installed, the contractor having until August 23 to complete the work.

From Coalville.—H. P. McCordle, now owner of the Coalville House, at Coalville, Summit county, is in town for a few days.

From Idaho Falls.—Mrs. T. M. Douglas and daughter of Idaho Falls are visiting with Mrs. A. Larsen, 2621 Monroe Avenue.

THREE WOMEN FIGHT SNAKES FOR HOURS

Pittsburg, Pa., July 29.—Three women, who went out early to pick berries on a farm about three miles from Latrobe, were rescued yesterday by farm hands, after having been buried in an abandoned coal mine for five hours, during which they fought continually with a nest of huge snakes. Two of the women became hysterical on their release, and are in a serious condition.

The women are Mrs. Maggie Maloy, Mrs. Mary Sarfano and Mrs. Florence Lacey. As they invaded an inviting field of berries the earth suddenly yawned and swallowed them. All three fell about twenty-five feet through a break in the roof of an abandoned mine into a pool of shallow water.

THAW PALE IN COURT.

else have them," said the message to Mr. O'Mara. Another message contained in this telegram told "Miss Bell" to deliver the boxes to Mr. O'Mara and cautioned her also to "Let nobody have them."

"Were you ever sent to anybody by Thaw to get a whip?" asked Jerome. "No," said Hartbridge. Mr. Hartbridge produced the original manuscript of several statements which Thaw gave to the newspapers in 1907. Thaw's counsel objected to the reading of some of these statements, but in one case requested that Mr. Jerome be allowed to read the paper to the court.

On cross-examination, Mr. Morschauer reverted to Hartbridge's suit against Mrs. M. C. Thaw. "It involves about $32,000 now," remarked the witness, "but it may involve more."

Hartbridge admitted that he had already received $103,000 from Mrs. Thaw, but said it was for "various purposes."

Susan Merrill was recalled and Mr. Jerome examined her along the lines of her previous testimony, alleging that Thaw flogged young women at her lodging house. She described the case of one girl in particular whom she said she saw treated in this manner.

"When Mr. Thaw went away," she said, "he left money for this girl and for others. I saw three different girls whipped in all," she asserted.

"Did you ever write letters to Stanford White?" asked Thaw's counsel. "Yes, sir."

"Did he ever call at your place?" "Yes, a few times."

Mrs. Merrill said she got acquainted with White when he called to see her about renting an apartment.

Harry Thaw then took the stand and Jerome's first question was the old one:

"Were you crazy when you killed White?"

"I don't know," said Thaw. "I was not medically so."

"How do you know?" "The doctors told me so."

"Did not several doctors," said Jerome, naming four, "swear, in your presence, that you were unable to appreciate the quality of your acts when you killed White?"

"I think so."

As the witness took the stand his wife entered and took a seat where she had a full view of his face.

A private stenographer employed by Thaw's family took down all this part of the examination.

Thaw's demeanor was as unruffled as it was yesterday and he swung his palm leaf fan without apparent nervousness.

While Jerome hunted through his papers, Thaw turned and talked snidely with Justice Mills.

Every time he was called to accept consultation with Assistant District Attorney Murphy from Jerome's office. She returned in a few moments and Thaw's wife was perhaps the only eyes in the room that were not upon her as she passed to her seat.

Thaw said he had not yet accepted the judgment of fourteen alienists who said he was irresponsible when he killed White.

"I think I may have had a 'brain storm,'" he suggested.

Jerome pounced upon the word. "What do you mean by a 'brain storm'?" Was it feeling of sudden anger or jealousy?

"No, it was not jealousy. The alienists have explained it."

Jerome's aggressiveness at length seemed to anger Thaw and, after the district attorney had read an alienist's assertion that he had "dementia precox" or adolescent insanity, he asked with asperity:

"Do you think I have dementia precox?"

"No," replied Jerome promptly, "but that is not the point."

Thaw declared that several alienists were misled by misinformation derived largely from the New York district attorney's office.

Asked how he knew this, he said Dr. Clifford had told him so at Mattawan.

Thaw again showed his dislike for Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton. While other alienists might have been misled, he said, he did not think Hamilton was.

"You don't think Dr. Hamilton would testify to a falsehood do you?" said Jerome.

"I don't know whether he would or not."

Jerome turned over to the witness a number of newspaper clippings that Thaw had sent to Attorney Delmas on the chance that he find there something of value in summing up. The district attorney defied him to find anything there of the least value to the lawyers defending a man on the charge of murder. Thaw flung the clippings for a moment.

"Here's something," he announced and read slowly and impressively the following words, from one of President Roosevelt's messages:

"The hideous crime of rape, the most abominable in all the category of crimes. . . moreover, in my judgment the crime of rape should always be punishable with extra-legal, including letters he received in person and editorial comment. From the sheets in his hands, Thaw read also quotations from the bible and from the poets on the subjects of wrongs to young girls and children.

"Find that thing about St. George," ordered Jerome.

This proved to be the following note, addressed to Delmas:

"The book I send you is Percy's Reliques about St. George" with a verse marked.

"Was your idea that Delmas should liken you to St. George?" asked Jerome.

"No. The story, as I remember it, was about the dragon," and Thaw went on to tell the familiar story.

"The idea," he said, "was that Mr. White was to be likened to the dragon."

Jerome dropped the clippings and held up a little note containing a pen and ink drawing.

"Are you willing this should be shown?" "Certainly not."

"Why not?" "Because it is addressed to my wife and only proper for her to see."

"Don't you want us to find out whether you are a coward or not?" "Yes."

"Then why don't you want this letter read?" "Let this an obscene letter," demanded Jerome, holding it out.

"It might be if written to another man's wife, but not written to mine."

Thaw was asked to identify a gold hat pin with a miniature dog's head at the end. He said he had seen it before.

"Was it ever the end of a whip?" "It might have been the handle of a parasol."

Jerome then presented the report of the commission of alienists appointed by Judge Fitzgerald during the first trial. Its contents had never before been made public. This commission examined Thaw behind closed doors, admitting attorneys for neither side, and reported that the prisoner was sane enough to confer with his counsel.

On the strength of it his trial was allowed to go on.

Jerome remarked that the mystery surrounding this report made him curious to see its contents.

After a brief conference with his client, Mr. Morschauer consented to have the report read.

The examination of the alienists' report was postponed while Jerome returned the notes Thaw gave Attorney Delmas to aid him in the first trial.

From this he read the following extracts from letters received by Thaw during the trial.

"Young man, you have intentionally and fearlessly antagonized the red dragon of holy writ. See Revelations XII."

"The unpardonable wrong, the offense no true man can condone—the violation of a maiden."

"A woman close to the sun, a woman with a diadem of twelve stars about her head and a moon beneath her feet."

YOUNG MAN MET TRAGIC DEATH AT SANITARIUM

San Francisco, July 29.—The funeral of Arthur M. Ritchie, son of Mrs. Caroline Adair, one of the wealthiest and best known society leaders of England, was held yesterday after a coroner's jury had met his tragic death at a Belmont, Cal. sanitarium, where he was found lying dead with a broken neck last Sunday.

Ritchie had been confined for some time in the asylum, where he was supported by his mother. He had been confined in several private asylums in both England and this country, and his latest incarceration followed a rambling story of robbery which he told the police of this city July 15. At the time, he was lying quietly in this city following his escape from a sanitarium in White Plains, N. Y.

The dead man was the son of Captain Ritchie of the British army, whose widow married John George Adair, an extensive landowner of England. It is believed that Ritchie met his death by attempting to escape from the Belmont sanitarium.

MINISTER MAKES PLEA FOR SUNDAY BASEBALL

Beverly Mass., July 29.—Rev. Paul Drake, pastor of the Beverly Universalist church, where the Taft family attend this summer, yesterday reiterated his plea for Sunday baseball and other sports, saying:

"As for the minister, he does not need to play Sunday baseball; he has enough of it during the week if he chooses, but the laboring man has but Sunday to himself."

"As conditions are, he does no wrong, in my opinion, to seek any legitimate mode of amusement and recreation on that day. If the tendency today is for a free Sunday, where all can enjoy themselves in their own way, why try to stem that tendency?"

AS TO PULLIAM'S SUCCESSOR.

Cincinnati, July 29.—The death of Harry Pulliam, president of the National Baseball league, causes speculation as to his successor.

Garry Herrmann, president of the Cincinnati baseball club, is in Yellowstone Park. Others, who were accredited with having inside knowledge of baseball politics, seem to think that John Heydler will be given the league presidency.

PROF. WOODWORTH SAYS THE FLEA HAS EYES

Berkeley, Cal., July 29.—Following a series of exhaustive experiments with the California flea, Professor C. W. Woodworth of the University of California, announced today that although the insect has eyes, it does not see. To be more exact, the professor stated that the flea does not see material objects, but merely sees a variation of the rays of light when near an object.

"There is no formation of images on the retina of the eye of a flea," said Professor Woodworth, "all the insect sees when it approaches a solid object is a varying intensity of light rays."

ROOSEVELT'S DAUGHTER MAY GO UP IN A BALLOON

Washington, July 29.—Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, daughter of former President Roosevelt, has become an enthusiast upon the trials of the Wright's aeroplane, and is almost constant and now, it is said, she is determined to make the flight herself, not in the aeroplane, though it is said she even expressed her willingness for that, but in a balloon.

A. Holland Forbes, of New York, acting president of the Aero Club of America, who is now in the city, has promised Mrs. Longworth to take her up.

WATER FOR THE TRUCKEE. CARSON IRRIGATION DISTRICT

Washington, July 29.—After negotiations which have continued unsuccessfully for several years between the government and the Truckee Electric company for the use of the storage waters in Lake Tahoe for irrigating the Truckee-Carson irrigation project in Nevada, it is believed an amicable settlement shortly will be reached. A contract for the use of the waters has been drawn up and only requires the removal of certain technicalities, before being signed by the secretary of the interior.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN TO MOVE TO TEXAS

Belmont, O., July 29.—William Jennings Bryan is to move to Texas. He said today in the course of an interview preceding his delivery of a lecture, he declared he intended to move to Texas following a South American tour on which he will start this fall.

"I am not to seek election to the senate from Nebraska," he said. "I am not going to be a Nebraskan, for I am going to move to Texas. I expect to continue in politics in Texas."

SCIENCE NOTES

The cases in which beer and other bottled goods of this character are sold represent a considerable investment, and when they are sent out there is no assurance that they will ever come back. By knocking out the interior divisions these boxes make excellent garbage and ash receptacles, and to this humble sphere they frequently find their way. This has been overcome recently by the construction of these cases of pressed steel, of which material they are very strong and durable. By making them of metal it is possible to construct them with an open bottom, which renders them unsuited for many purposes to which they have been surreptitiously devoted.

The plans for the new Quebec bridge will not be completed for several months yet, and although the design in many particulars will be the same as that of the old bridge, none of the old material will be used in the new structure. All the girders and other material delivered for the ill-fated bridge will be treated as scrap.

Col. Frank Touville, a rancher living near Medford, Ore., is said to have produced a new method of growing crops, which results in three crops of berries in a season, which result has been obtained by grafting alfalfa roots on the roots of the strawberry vine. Alfalfa roots deeply and produces three to five crops a year without irrigation. It occurred to him that strawberries might do the same if the soil could be kept moist and warm far enough so as to receive moisture from the soil throughout the season.

It is not generally known that a waterway between Lake Michigan and the Mississippi now exists across the State of Wisconsin, and recently two steamers of considerable size passed through from the lake to the river. The route extends from Lake Michigan up Fox River, 38 miles, to and across Lake Winnebago, and through the upper Fox River 105 miles to the Portage Canal, which is 2 1/2 miles in length. Thence it passes down the Wisconsin River, reaching the Mississippi near Prairie du Chien.

Prof. T. A. Jagger, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is spending the summer in Honolulu, making arrangements for the construction of an observatory at the brink of the Volcano Kilauea for the study of volcanic action. The people of the island were invited to co-operate with the American institution, and have succeeded in raising a large amount of money for the purpose.

Arthur Wright has invented an electrical device for evaluating algebraical formulae and equations, says the Scientific American. The device consists in the combination of special rheostats attached to slide rules and a Wheatstone bridge by which coefficients can be multiplied, divided, added, or subtracted simultaneously, and by which complicated algebraical expressions or equations can be evaluated or solved with an accuracy comparable with that attainable by ordinary slide rules.

DROWNED IN BAY.

Santa Ana, Cal., July 28.—Edward White, 10-year-old son of Dr. Edward White of Anaheim and Walter Angell, aged thirteen, son of Edward E. Angell of Anaheim, were drowned at Fisherman's Cove, five miles south of Laguna Beach today. A boat in which they were riding capsized. Mrs. Angell, mother of one of the boys, who was also in the boat, was rescued by a younger son on shore.
